The fibers are embedded in the real anti-counterfeiting sticker(you can use a needle to pick some fibers out!!!), while the counterfeit labels normally would have fiber printed instead of having the fiber embedded. Here is another human pulmonary Organs-on-Chips model (lung) we are utilizing for applied research. This model was designed by "Emulate, Inc." The microfluidic channels shown in the chip contain human-derived, cultured cells. In conjunction with pumps and a linked software program, we are able to more accurately biomimic what occurs in human bodies (i.e. responses to products and environmental conditions), and we can also replicate diseases.
