Fragment 176-191 (modified version of AOD9604) is a small piece of human growth hormone (hGH) that is sometimes referred to as the "lipolytic fragment." Fragment 176-191 earned this latter name due to the fact that laboratory research has shown it to enhance fat burning, particularly in mice genetically engineered to produce large fat stores. This human GH peptide FRAGMENT is a tailored form of amino acids 176-191 at the C-terminal region of the human growth hormone aka HGH. It has been documented that the fat reducing properties of GH appear to be elicited by a small analog region of the C-terminus end of the GH molecule.
