Testosterone enanthate, also known as testosterone heptanoate, is an anabolic and androgenic steroid (AAS) drug used to treat low testosterone levels. Anabolic drugs work by building muscles, while androgenic refers to the enhancement of sex characteristics typically associated with males. The aorta is the main and largest artery in the human body, originating from the left ventricle of the heart and extending down to the abdomen, where it splits into two smaller arteries (the common iliac arteries). The aorta distributes oxygenated blood to all parts of the body through the systemic circulation.

Testosterone cypionate is a synthetic derivative of testosterone in the form of an oil-soluble 17 (beta)- cyclopentylpropionate ester. Its benefit compared to other testosterone derivatives is the slow rate of release after injection and longer half-life. Pullulan is manufactured by fermentation of sucrose using polymorphic yeast, Aureobasidium pullulans which is neither genetically modified nor pathogenic. In pharmaceutical industry, Kopolan is used as excipient. It is used as substitute for gelatin in the production of capsule shells, as an ingredient of coated tablets. visit your url
