Once a week is a bad protocol for HCG. Studies show the half-life is only 32-34 hours, so you really need EOD or ED dosing to keep levels stable. Studies also show that 250-300 IU EOD is the sweet spot to keep your testes active at full capacity. Any less and your testes may atrophy, any more and you may have excess estrogen conversion. 250 IU's EOD or twice a week is normal. It depends on your response, and it will downregulate receptors over time. It will also increase E2 and T in addition to your injection of 150 mg of test. One dose of it is pissing in the ocean, and because of down-regulation you will at some point be either upping the dose or cycling off.

so the question is this with out pituitary problems the best way to take HCG with injections would be. 1. 250 ius EOD based upon research. 2. 250 ius 2 days prior injection using every 3rd day administration. So then is EOD ok to do with injections or would you get same benefit as doing it days in between shoots.

1 Not_In_Charge • 8 yr. ago The easiest and most common way to mix your hCG is so that you end up with a concentration of 1,000IU/ml. You don't have to do it this way, but it makes the math very simple. I'm assuming they sent you a 10ml vial of BAC water along with the hCG? If so, use a 10cc syringe and draw up 10ml of BAC water.
