Steroid cycles are not easy to put together, nor are they easy to come off of. If you screw things up, you can mess up your endocrine system or worse, shut down your natural testosterone production for life. Is this something you would want to do? If not, first look at these questions:

Are you a male over eighteen years old? Have you been training for at least two or three years seriously? Can you devote at least half a year to working out consistently? Can you be sure you can get real steroids?

If you answer NO to any of the above questions, don't waste your time with anabolic steroids. You won't get the results you want.

Are you a female? Are you or have you ever suffered kidney or liver problems?

If you answer YES to any of the above questions, stay away from steroids. As far away as you can. Diet and Training is your golden sword here.

Every steroid cycle has a start, finish and an end - post cycle therapy (PCT).
