You will have noticed, upon visiting Dubrovnik, how people who live in this old city of stone and walls have certain specific charm. There is something about the very place of their residence that reflects back to them so intensely. Sometimes, it can be difficult to explain why that happens ☐. To understand it, you would have to have been born here or spend some time immersed in everyday peculiarities of Dubrovnik. In a way, it has a lot to do with the people who helped shape our history. You won't be reading about them in any history books though. Instead, you can only learn about them through stories told by locals who knew them or have been told their stories ☐. We invite you to explore a #differentDubrovnik upon your next visit. Ask the locals for stories about Originals from Dubrovnik who carry our collective spirit to this day. Also, tune in to the series about their lives, as reconstructed by Vedran Benić our next interlocutor for #_ogradu. #talkwiththelocals 566
