Ossidi e perossidi

Gli ossidi hanno in genere un comportamento acido. Gli ossidi dei non metalli hanno in genere un comportamento basico. Gli ossidi dei metalli sono un tipo particolare di ossidi che contengono due atomi di ossigeno per ciascuno dei quali ha no. -1. Il loro gruppo caratteristico è, pertanto,  $-O-O-$ .

La nomenclatura IUPAC prevede il nome ossido di seguito dal nome del metallo. I nomi tradizionali vengono espressi secondo le regole esposte in precedenza. Anche se è possibile utilizzare la notazione di Stock e abbreviare il nome, si preferisce la nomenclatura tradizionale. Esempio: ossido di rame (I)  $Cu_2O$  diventa ossido di rame (I).

La nomenclatura tradizionale distingue gli ossidi dei metalli, ossidi basici, dagli ossidi acidi. A questi ultimi veniva dato il nome di anidridi, denominati per il metallo, e il prefisso per- e il suffisso -ico per il numero di ossidazione. Se l'elemento presenta più di due numeri di ossidazione, si fa seguire la radice del nome del metallo con il prefisso per- e il suffisso -ico per il numero di ossidazione. Esempio: perossido di sodio  $Na_2O_2$ .
