So the message in this story is, no matter what you go through there is always hope. Be yourself & don't care much about what other people say! It's your life, your happiness so do what you want to do. If someone for example says that you can't be a doctor and you want to be a doctor, do you gonna care about what that person said? No don't care don't put your head down, go for it! You can achieve your goals & dreams but you need to care less about what other people say.
