It all started with a want and it became an ambition and you want it bad enough, it became a burning desire. This deep desire is strong enough that it is the very essence that drives you to move from one trial to another, yes you may fail, but it showed your efforts, that you tried persistently, and your courage never cease, you try again, you go from failure to failure without losing enthusiasm. This drives of desire is so deep, so pure, so raw, and hungry to be satiated there is nothing you could do but to move forward and grow each day -- you have found your WHY -- and when your WHY is crystal clear, you will finally see your PURPOSE, and from this point forward, everything becomes light and easy, it flows gently but surely, as you take it all in and surrender to synchronicity with every single breath of air that you take, the veil is thinning and you begin to understand everything. .
