I'm so excited to see Emory become a big sister! It makes me so emotional to even think about it to be honest. When you love someone as much as you love your first child, it can seem impossible to love another child in the same way. Will there be room in my heart? Will they drive a wedge between Emory & I? Will we be happy? Yet, generation after generation, the love of another child makes such a profound imprint on the heart and parents learn they did in fact have room for another! (Or so I've read.) I can't wait to experience that in full once this tiny baby is in our arms! For now, my hormones are taking my emotions on a wild ride. But I do know this baby is loved already. ♥?

The best way to achieve optimal levels of iron is through diet rather than supplements. This minimizes the risk of overdose and ensures good iron intake along with other nutrients. 10 What you pair iron with also matters: vitamin C enhances iron absorption, while calcium and tannins (such as those found in tea and coffee) limit absorption.
