Among cis people, even cis "allies", the high rate of trans suicide is often linked to some overarching mental illness that all trans people just so happen to have because of their transness. Of course this is not true: a high suicide rate in the trans community comes from "I don't have access to hormones", "no one will hire me and I don't have enough money for food", "I have no one in my life who loves me anymore", "my doctors won't take my illness seriously", "I am harassed every day at school and at home", etc etc etc.

ANABOLIC vs. CATABOLIC

The two phases of metabolism

Process that builds molecules

Requires Energy

Includes exercises that are anaerobic in nature and generally build muscle mass

Hormones involved: estrogen, testosterone, insulin, growth hormone

Process that breaks down molecules

Releases Energy

Includes exercises that are usually aerobic and good at burning fat and calories

Hormones involved: adrenaline, cortisol, glucagon, cytokines

Getting into a groove again takes time, but it's possible. Having a plan makes the focus even more sharp when you're looking to improve. And, the plan is rarely just moving a weight.
