

Selective Androgen Receptor Modulators (SARMS or S. A. R. M. S) are similar to prohormones but where prohormones have both anabolic and androgenic activity, SARMS are specifically focused around anabolic (muscle building) action with minimal androgenic effects making them a milder option for those wanting a hardcore muscle builder.

SARMs in Dietary Supplements and Other Products

Selective androgen receptor modulators (SARMs) and similar anabolic-like substances (including "metabolic modulators") are unapproved drugs, yet they're readily available online both as ingredients in dietary supplement products and as chemical substances available for "research only." Some websites market these unapproved products for "research use" but describe them with language clearly targeting use for bodybuilding and other performance-enhancing effects. However, according to FDA, "Body building products that contain selective androgen receptor modulators, or SARMs, have not been approved by the FDA and are associated with serious safety concerns, including potential to increase the risk of heart attack or stroke and life-threatening reactions like liver damage." SARMs and metabolic modulators are synthetic drugs, which means they are not legal for use in dietary supplements, and they're prohibited for use in sport. The list of SARMs (on this page) and similar unapproved drugs (on the next page) along with various names associated with them will help you recognize these unapproved drugs. Following these is a list of currently available products labeled as dietary supplements or marketed in a way to suggest they are dietary supplements (or otherwise legal) that contain one or more of these unapproved drugs. Products that appear to be marketed for legitimate research use only are not included on this list.

Osta Elite by Focused Nutrition Hi guys, I started my first SARM, Ostarine, 3 weeks ago. I bought OstaElite by Focused Nutrition, which comes has 90 capsules of 25mg each in it. Thus far, I took 1 cap a day (25mg) as this seems the general consensus around Osta. However, the bottle says taking 2 caps (50mg) a day, which seems rather suspicious.
