Saizen is a growth hormone sourced from mouse cells but identical to the human growth hormone produced in the pituitary gland.

The Saizen growth hormone, once administered, operates in the body in much the same way as it's natural counterpart. It mixes with GH receptors in the body to elicit a change in molecular signalling, which itself causes a number of process which lead to the drug's effects.

Today is National Physicians  Day - an opportunity to celebrate the contributions, achievements and dedication of physicians to their patients and communities.
