Banks Climbing Rose found in the homestead today. Not sure how I missed it in previous springs, but I'm thrilled to find it this year! Native to central and western China, in the provinces of Gansu, Guizhou, Henan, Hubei, Jiangsu, Sichuan and Yunnan, at altitudes of 500-2,200 m (1,640-7,218 ft), it is used in traditional Chinese medicine, with portions of other plants and herbs (such as monkshood and Ligusticum wallichii) to make a liniment to treat a painful swelling of the joints. Named for Dorothea Lady Banks, the wife of the botanist Sir Joseph Banks, this scrambling shrubby vine grows vigorously to 6 m (20 ft) tall. Unlike most roses, it is practically thornless, though it may bear some prickles up to 5 mm long, particularly on stout, strong shoots. The leaves are evergreen, and the flowers are small, 1.5-2.5 cm diameter, white or pale yellow and are fragrant, and are said to smell of violets to varying degrees.
